Fielden Homes

Kicking off this year's winning lineup is Fielden Homes. Builder-Developer Don Fielden brings us his new subdivision, The Hamptons, located on the rim of Skiatook Lake directly east of the CrossTimbers marina-resort complex. Located in The Hamptons was Fielden's impressive $1.6 Million parade entry at 63 Sunset Drive. This fine home clearly demonstrates that the Skiatook lake area is growing into a prime area for those homebuyers seeking access to water recreation and proximity to the Tulsa metro market, located a quick 20 minutes from Tulsa.

The Fielden entry has 5,700 square feet detailed with extensive wood moldings and unique features throughout the home. Wood plank flooring in the main living area combines with the heavily treed lot to remind you that while you're standing in a new home, you are surrounded by a natural environment that until quite recently was as untamed as Oklahoma can get.

The westerly views from either the large covered back patio or the second story deck adjacent to the gameroom provide a powerful unrestricted vista consisting of Skiatook lake, the CrossTimbers marina and the western lakeshore, lush with foliage. From other points in the subdivision you can see the Tulsa skyline on the horizon.

The home's facade consists of brick and natural stone. The stone is a beautiful variety called Oklahoma double chopped in a full color blend, which is exclusively available in the Tulsa area from Rosser Midwest Stone and helps tie the home's exterior to the rustic landscape. Copper finials, louvers and guttering add to the visual appeal as the eyebrow dormers remind us of traditional English architecture.

Additional features worth noting include the backlit translucent granite backsplash in the butler's pantry adjacent to the dining area and the barrel-arched ceiling in the main gallery, which connects the main entry to the kitchen and home theatre. Flooring in the gallery and foyer consist of wood planking with diamond pattern travertine tile inlays.

The master bath is complete with a multiple head massaging shower environment complete with an overhead "rain" shower that will melt away the stresses of the day.
